Annual Student Employee Self-Evaluation
Academic Year: Fall 2025

Employee Name: Eric Isabel Lambert

Employee ID: EMP-7234

Position: IT Help Desk Support Specialist (Part-Time)

Supervisor: Marcus Tran, IT Operations Manager

Review Period: September 2025 through December 2025

Date Submitted: December 15, 2025

Instructions: Evaluate your own performance honestly in each area. Use specific examples where possible.

SECTION 1: TECHNICAL SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

Self-Rating: 4 out of 5

I came into this semester with a good foundation from my CS coursework and the previous year at the desk. This fall I handled a wider range of issues independently than I did as a first-year, which felt like real progress.

Examples: I diagnosed and resolved two separate hardware issues with lab machines (keyboard replacement, monitor driver update) without needing to ask for help. I also handled a Python environment configuration issue for a student that I was able to work through based on what I know from CS class.

Area to improve: I still find network-related tickets the least intuitive. I escalated all network issues this semester as trained, but I would like to understand more of the basics of campus networking so I can do more initial diagnosis before escalating.

SECTION 2: CUSTOMER SERVICE AND COMMUNICATION

Self-Rating: 4 out of 5

I think this is an area where I have gotten noticeably better. Early in my first year I sometimes rushed through explanations when a user was frustrated. This semester I got better at slowing down and making sure the user understood what happened and why, not just that the problem was fixed.

One specific example: A faculty member had lost what she thought were three important files after an accidental deletion. I took extra time to walk her through Google Drive version history, recovered two of the three files, and was honest that the third was not recoverable. She thanked me afterward and I think it was because I did not just say the file was gone.

Area to improve: I could be more proactive about following up after a ticket is closed rather than waiting to hear back if something went wrong.

SECTION 3: RELIABILITY AND PROFESSIONALISM

Self-Rating: 5 out of 5

I did not miss a single scheduled shift this semester and I was not late to any shifts. I handled all documentation requirements consistently. When Marcus was out on two Fridays, I covered solo without issue.

I take this job seriously. It is part of my financial situation but it is also real work experience that I want to represent well.

SECTION 4: TICKET MANAGEMENT AND DOCUMENTATION

Self-Rating: 4 out of 5

I opened a ticket for every request before starting work, as required. I documented steps taken and resolution notes on every ticket I handled.

Area to improve: My ticket notes are accurate but sometimes brief. I want to be more thorough in describing what I tried before the resolution so the next person has better context if the issue comes back.

SECTION 5: OVERALL ACCOMPLISHMENTS THIS SEMESTER

- Handled 32 tickets over the fall semester, including 3 solo on days Marcus was out. Zero escalations that were avoidable.
- Successfully replaced a projector bulb for the first time without assistance, from the procedures manual alone.
- Helped a student navigate a legitimate university VPN issue that took about 30 minutes. She said it was the best help desk experience she had had at the school.
- Stayed calm in a situation where a user was initially frustrated and raised her voice. Did not escalate the tension. Resolved the issue.

SECTION 6: GOALS FOR THE SPRING AND SUMMER TERMS

1. Build better foundational knowledge of network troubleshooting so I can do more initial diagnosis before escalating.
2. Improve ticket documentation depth.
3. Successfully take on the expanded responsibilities of the summer full-time role, specifically orientation tech setup and workstation deployment.
4. Ask Marcus for feedback on one specific thing I can do differently every month instead of waiting for the formal review.
