Ministries and groups

The congregation runs a handful of small groups and service teams through the year. Most meet midweek or right after Sunday worship, and newcomers are folded in without ceremony.

- Outreach ministry, partnering with the pro bono legal clinic for neighbors in need.
- Choir and music, rehearsing Thursday evenings.
- Hospitality team for fellowship meals and holiday services.
- Newsletter and communications, where the quarterly volunteer column lives.

Giving and outreach

Tithes and offerings stay modest through the year and round up at the holidays. The giving supports the local outreach ministry and the partnership with the pro bono legal clinic, which serves many of the same neighbors the congregation already knows.

A note for the family calendar

Attendance picks up through Advent, so the December services are worth holding on the calendar early. The Christmas Eve service at 6:00 in the evening is the anchor, with the family together and the rest of the day given over to cooking and the morning gathering. Grace before the big meals stays a habit even on the quieter Sundays.

- Hold the December services on the family calendar before the month fills.
- Bake for the holiday fellowship meals when the week allows.
- Keep one volunteer slot open for the newsletter column each quarter.

Volunteer column drafts are due to the office the first week of the month before each quarter.
