First Grade, Room 4 | Ms. Danielle Carter

Class Newsletter, week of January 26, 2026

Hello First Grade Families

What a strong stretch of learning we have had since the winter break. The class has settled back into routines and the energy in Room 4 has been wonderful. Thank you for sending the children in ready to read and ready to work.

In the Classroom

In reading we are deep into short vowel patterns and starting to blend longer words with confidence. Please keep up the nightly reading log, even ten minutes makes a difference. In math we are building fluency with addition and subtraction within twenty using ten frames and number lines.

Our art block has been a highlight. The watercolor self portraits are hanging in the hallway and they are full of personality. Lily has been a real leader at the art table and her color mixing is something to see. In our morning share circle the soccer fans have plenty to talk about, and Ethan keeps us posted on the weekend games.

Dates to Remember

Parent and teacher conferences are Thursday, February 12, 2026. Sign up sheets went home in folders this week. Our class field trip to Fernbank Museum of Natural History is Friday, February 27, 2026, and we still need two chaperones. Please reply in the folder if you can join us.

As always, reach out any time. The fastest way to get me is through the class folder note or the school office.
