Reason for visit

Recurring anterior knee pain on the right side during high mileage weeks, described as an ache around and under the kneecap that builds on longer runs and eases with rest. Patient is training for a half-marathon in the fall.

Assessment

Patellofemoral pain, consistent with prior episodes and load related. No swelling, no instability, full range of motion. Strength testing shows mild weakness in the right hip abductors and quad. No imaging indicated at this time.

Plan

- Reduce weekly mileage by about 20 percent for two weeks, then rebuild gradually.
- Hip and quad strengthening, three sessions per week, handout provided.
- Ibuprofen 200 mg as needed for soreness, no more than twice per week.
- Replace running shoes once past roughly 350 miles.
- Return if pain worsens, locks, or does not settle with the plan above.

Follow up as needed. Cleared to continue training within comfort.
