About the Property

The bungalow has two bedrooms and one bath, a small front porch, and a detached single car garage with a workbench and the tools Gary uses for repairs around the house and for neighbors. The basement holds the laundry and more tools. Karen's old bedroom is kept ready for the grandchildren when they visit.

The backyard holds Marlene's garden, which Gary tends from May through September, growing tomatoes, cucumbers, and beans among her perennial beds. The roof was inspected last fall and is in good condition. The house is functional and well kept rather than updated, and that suits him.

Property tax is paid monthly through an escrow line in the checking account. Insurance is handled through a local agency on Main Street.
