Clinical notes

Soft tissue exam within normal limits. No cavities detected on clinical or radiographic exam. Mild gum recession noted on the lower left, stable since the last visit. Home care is good. Continue soft bristle brushing twice daily and daily flossing, with gentle technique on the lower left to protect the recession area.

Findings by quadrant

| Quadrant    | Finding                  | Recommendation         |
|-------------|--------------------------|------------------------|
| Upper right | No decay, gums healthy   | Routine care           |
| Upper left  | No decay, light staining | Routine care           |
| Lower left  | Mild recession, stable   | Soft brushing, monitor |
| Lower right | No decay, gums healthy   | Routine care           |

Preventive plan

Next recall cleaning and exam are due in six months. A reminder will be sent by email and text. Fluoride varnish was offered and declined this visit. No restorative work is needed at this time.

Home care summary

Brush twice daily with a soft brush and fluoride toothpaste.

Floss once daily, easing gently around the lower left recession.

Limit acidic drinks and rinse with water after coffee.

Call the office if you notice sensitivity or bleeding that does not settle.
