

Staging Proposal, Desert Vista Model Homes

Spencer Interiors | Prepared for Acacia Homes, Attn: Brian Torres | SI-2025-DV3

Proposal date	November 12, 2025
Status	Approved at the proposed figure
Development	Marana, three model homes
Approved budget	$150,000.00
Install begins	October 24, 2026

Overview

Spencer Interiors proposes to stage three model homes for the Desert Vista development in Marana. The goal is three distinct but related staging schemes that show the range of the community while keeping a cohesive desert modern thread across all three. Each home is styled to photograph well and to help buyers connect emotionally with the space, the way they will actually live in it.

Objectives

Present a clear design point of view that elevates the development and supports the asking prices. Give the sales team three furnished homes that read as warm, current, and move in ready. Deliver imagery that carries into the brochure, the website, and the signage. Keep the program on budget and return the furnishings to inventory cleanly at the close.

Staging Approach, Three Schemes

Home A, Warm Minimal. Oatmeal and walnut, restrained and bright, aimed at the entry level buyer who wants calm and order. Clean upholstered seating, a single sculptural light, and a few well chosen objects.

Home B, Collected Desert. Layered neutrals with vintage notes and tactile textiles, the flagship feel. Mixed wood tones, hand loomed rugs, and a gallery of small art, the home that anchors the brochure.

Home C, Soft Contemporary. A cooler palette with sculptural pieces, aimed at the design forward buyer. Crisp lines, stone and glass, and a quiet confidence that lets the architecture lead.

Budget Allocation

Line item	Amount
Model home A, full furnishings and styling	$42,000.00
Model home B, full furnishings and styling	$42,000.00
Model home C, full furnishings and styling	$42,000.00
Design and project management fee	$18,000.00
Logistics, delivery and install	$6,000.00
Total	$150,000.00

The allocation holds the three homes at an equal furnishings figure for balance across the tour, with the design fee and logistics covering planning, sourcing, delivery, and on site styling. The total of 150,000 matches the approved proposal figure.

Process and Timeline

On acceptance, the studio locks the three schemes with the developer, places trade orders against the lead times, and schedules delivery to all three homes. Install begins October 24, 2026, with styling and photography to follow once each home is dressed. The studio coordinates directly with the Acacia Homes team so the sales calendar and the install calendar stay aligned.

Sourcing

Furnishings are placed through established trade accounts and the local artisan network, the same sources the studio uses on its full service residential work. This keeps quality high and lead times predictable, and it lets the homes share a material language without looking identical.

About the Studio

Spencer Interiors is a boutique residential design firm in Scottsdale, led by Jessica Spencer, known for mid century modern interiors warmed for real living. The studio carries a full service practice across design, sourcing, and install, with a deep sample library and long standing trade relationships. That same rigor is what the model home program receives, scaled to the schedule and budget of a sales tour rather than a full custom residence.

Why the Approach Works for Sales

Buyers decide quickly, and they decide emotionally. Three homes that feel warm, current, and clearly considered help a buyer picture a life in the space, not just square footage. By keeping a shared material language across the three schemes, the tour reads as one community with range, which supports the asking prices and shortens the path from walkthrough to offer.

What the Developer Receives

Three fully furnished and styled model homes ready for the sales tour. A short style guide for each home so the sales team can speak to the design choices. A punch walk before photography to confirm every room reads clean. Coordination of delivery and install dates so the homes open on the sales calendar.

Photography and Marketing Support

Once each home is dressed, the studio supports a photography day so the imagery carries into the brochure, the website, and the on site signage. The styling is built to photograph well, with attention to sight lines, layered light, and the small details that make a space feel lived in rather than staged.

Care During the Program

While the homes are open, the studio remains available to refresh styling, replace any piece that shows wear, and adjust a room if the sales team finds a layout that shows better. Light touch ups are included so the homes hold their look across the run of the program.

Terms

Staging packages are placed through trade accounts and return to inventory at the close of the model home program unless the developer elects to purchase them. Any single commitment at or above 500 carries prior approval. The schedule is confirmed on acceptance. Pricing is held for sixty days from the proposal date. Risk of loss for the furnishings during the program is covered under the studio policy for valuable property in transit and on site.

Accepted for Acacia Homes:

Brian Torres, Acacia Homes Jessica Spencer, Spencer Interiors