

Year-End Review 2026 And Goals For 2027

Quiet end-of-year stocktake, written late December 2026. Plain notes to set the next year up.

2026 - What Went Well

- Chest-pain triage protocol moved from draft to a real rollout plan; go-live set for Q1 2027.
- Two precepting blocks delivered; both students progressed.
- Diet change held through the year; lipid panel due in January will show whether it landed.
- OBX week happened and the household calendar mostly held.

2026 - What To Improve

- Emergency fund still $6,000 short of the $40,000 target.
- The woodworking bench stayed mostly idle, again.
- Recovery hours got squeezed on a few heavy weeks; protect them harder.

2027 Goals

- Land the triage protocol rollout and complete the 90-day audit.
- Close the emergency-fund gap to $40,000.
- Finish one woodworking piece, the vinyl shelf.
- Keep two to three runs a week and the lipid trend moving the right way.
- Book OBX 2027 early and start Nolan's college visits.

Anchors That Do Not Change

Three shifts and the recovery after them. The kids' rhythm. Sunday pancakes, church, and the 19:00 call to Ed. Nicole as the second principal on everything that touches the household.
