Subject: 2027 Season Revised Commitment — Blue Ridge Distribution

Larry, after the Q4 retail review I am revising our 2027 season commitment upward on two lines. The Stoneridge Saison line moves from 420 BBL to 480 BBL, a 60 BBL increase, reflecting five new accounts in the Triangle that came back stronger than expected after the late-summer sampling run and three existing accounts pushing harder on Saison than on Pale.

The Black Hollow Imperial Stout line moves from 45 BBL to 110 BBL, a 65 BBL increase, reflecting renewed craft-cocktail placement interest at four Charlotte and Knoxville on-premise accounts and one new Asheville boutique retailer that opened in July.

Other SKU commitments on our side hold against the August pipeline review: Appalachian Pale at 130 BBL, Father's Reserve at 30 BBL, Mountain Spring Lager at 30 BBL, Experimental Single-Origin Imperial Stout at 5 BBL. Revised Blue Ridge Distribution 2027 total: 785 BBL.

Please let me know if the production side can hold the additional 125 BBL across the two revised lines. Happy to take the call this week if it is easier.

Subject: Spring Release Window Timing — Give Yourself Room

Larry, hearing through the contractor grapevine that the fermentation room is running tight on the schedule. If we need to bump the spring barrel-aged release window forward by three or four weeks to give you breathing room on the renovation, I can absorb the shift on our side without much friction. Three or four of the bigger accounts down here would actually prefer the slightly earlier window.

Just say the word and I will redo our Q1 forecast and let the retailers know on our side. Easier to do it now than scramble in January.

Filing note: no reply from Larry Bates has been logged in the brewery correspondence file as of October 1, 2026.

Subject: 2027 Program — Co-op Pricing Proposal

Larry, Diane Halberstam here. I stepped into the buyer seat at Carolina Craft Co-op on September 1, replacing Patrick Nye. Now that I have reviewed your 2027 allocations on our side, I would like to talk through a $0.50 per case discount across the board, applied at receipt rather than rebated.

I understand it is a meaningful ask. I am framing it as a long-cycle commitment from us, four full seasons with locked SKU mix. Open to discuss the structure that works for you. Our current commitment holds at 320 BBL across your six-SKU set while we discuss.

Subject: Mountain Spring Lager 2027 Revision — Down 30 BBL

Larry, revising our Mountain Spring Lager commitment for 2027 down from 90 BBL to 60 BBL. Two accounts we expected to take cases in March have decided to lean into a contract pilsner instead. The other SKUs on our side hold.

Apologies for the late move on our side. Revised Smoky Mountain Beverage 2027 total: 250 BBL across the five-SKU set.

Subject: 2027 Production Data Request — Forecast Modelling

Hi Larry, Travis here. We are putting together our 2027 buying plan and the team here would love to see your unpublished production numbers, mash counts and weekly fermentation throughput, so we can model the supply curve from your side and lock our forecast against it.

Even a rough table for the November through March stretch would let us size our orders better. Happy to keep it inside our buying office.

Our current 2027 commitment holds at 240 BBL across the five-SKU set. No change on that today.

Larry, formally confirming our 2027 allocation of 195 BBL across the five SKUs we carry, weighted toward Stoneridge Saison and Black Hollow Imperial as in 2026. Shipping windows align with our usual eight-week cold-chain cycles, first container loading early December 2026.

Line breakdown: Stoneridge Saison 60 BBL, Appalachian Pale 40 BBL, Black Hollow Imperial 50 BBL, Father's Reserve 25 BBL, Experimental Single-Origin Imperial Stout 20 BBL. British Craft Imports 2027 total: 195 BBL.

Subject: Black Hollow Imperial 2027 — Holding at 30 BBL

Larry, separately, please note our Black Hollow Imperial commitment for 2027 holds at 30 BBL on our side, same as the August pipeline figure. The Mountain Spring move I sent on September 26 was about the lager seat specifically, not the imperial program. Let me know if you need this reflected anywhere else on your paperwork.

This does not change our Smoky Mountain Beverage 2027 total of 250 BBL.
