Public Service Loan Forgiveness

Your employer qualifies as a public service employer for the forgiveness program. To keep your progress on record, submit the employment certification each year. Your next certification is due 2027-01-29. Qualifying payments accumulate while you work full time for an eligible employer and pay under a qualifying plan.

Measure	Value
Qualifying payments counted	78
Payments remaining (estimate)	42
Employer certified through	2026
Next certification due	2027-01-29

How your payment is set

Under the income-driven plan your payment is a share of discretionary income, adjusted for household size. When income or household size changes you may recertify to update the payment. The current payment of one hundred ninety-five dollars reflects the most recent certification.

Important reminders

- Recertify income and household size each year to keep the plan current.
- Submit the employer certification annually for forgiveness tracking.
- Payments made during an eligible period count toward forgiveness.
- Keep statements with your tax records (see P05).

Glossary of terms

Term	Meaning
Principal	The amount borrowed that remains to be repaid
Income-driven repayment	A plan that sets payment from income and household size
Qualifying payment	An on-time payment under an eligible plan while working public service
Capitalization	Adding unpaid interest to principal
Recertification	The annual update of income and household size

Your rights

- You may switch repayment plans if another plan fits your situation better.
- You may prepay without penalty at any time.
- You may request a copy of your full payment history.
- You may contact the servicer with any billing question.

Keeping on track

Set a reminder for the annual recertification and the employer certification so neither lapses. Steady, on-time payments under the current plan continue to count toward forgiveness. Retain each statement with the year's tax records (see P05).
