Cover Note

Jordan, this summary walks through the figures we will carry into the joint return for tax year 2025. The numbers below reflect the consulting practice, the speaking income, and the reasonable compensation split we discussed for the S corporation. Please review each section and call the office with any questions before you sign.

Section 1. Business Income

Source	Amount
Consulting revenue	380,000.00
Speaking revenue	65,000.00
Gross business revenue	445,000.00
Business expenses	(85,000.00)
Net business income	360,000.00

The consulting practice cleared 445,000 dollars of gross revenue against 85,000 dollars of deductible business expense, leaving net business income of 360,000 dollars. Consulting and speaking are reported together as the gross revenue of the practice.

Section 2. Expense Detail

The 85,000 dollars of business expense is built from the categories below. Each is ordinary and necessary for a solo leadership consulting practice and is supported by records on file.

Category	Amount
Home office, allocated	9,600.00
Mileage and travel to client sites	14,200.00
Professional liability premium	2,400.00
Podcast production and software	8,800.00
Contractor support, part time	26,000.00
Marketing, web, and subscriptions	9,000.00
Continuing education and dues	5,000.00
Other ordinary business costs	10,000.00
Total business expenses	85,000.00

Section 3. Reasonable Compensation

For the S corporation we applied a reasonable compensation salary to you as the working owner, with the remainder of net income passing through as a distribution. This split is consistent with comparable roles and with the hours you put into the practice. The payroll filings for the year support the salary figure, and the distribution is reported on the schedule that flows to the joint return.

Item	Amount
Officer salary, W-2	140,000.00
Pass through distribution	220,000.00
Net business income	360,000.00

Section 4. Household Picture

On the joint return your business income is combined with your spouse's wages. Sarah's W-2 wages for the year are 420,000 dollars. The figures below are for planning context and are not the final tax liability, which depends on deductions, credits, and estimated payments already made.

Source	Amount
Net business income, Jordan	360,000.00
Spouse W-2 wages, Sarah Brock	420,000.00
Combined household income	780,000.00

Section 5. Payments and Next Steps

Your fourth quarter estimate for 2025 was paid on January 15, 2026. We will finalize the return once you confirm the figures above and send the last two account statements. The home office, mileage to client sites, the liability premium, and podcast costs are all reflected in the expense figure. The return is ready for your review and signature. Call the office when you have a moment to walk through it.

Section 6. Estimated Payment Record

The quarterly estimates below were made during tax year 2025 and the final installment in January 2026. They are credited against the total liability calculated on the return.

Quarter	Date paid	Amount
First quarter 2025	April 15, 2025	28,000.00
Second quarter 2025	June 16, 2025	28,000.00
Third quarter 2025	September 15, 2025	28,000.00
Fourth quarter 2025	January 15, 2026	28,000.00
Total estimates		112,000.00
